Hurricane Losing Punch On Carolina Coast

New Tropical Storm—Diane—Is Developing

New England Is Removed from Hurricane Alert

CAPE HATTERAS, N. C. (AP)—Hurricane Connie lost some of her punch today.

Although winds of hurricane force were sweeping the north Carolina coast, the velocity of the mighty tropical blow dropped from 115 to about 100 miles an hour.

But even as Connie, tired from two days of thrashing around in circles offshore, lost some of her power a new tropical storm was building up 2,000 miles to the southeast and following Connie's path.

The fresh blow, named Diane, was located about 1,000 miles south of Cape Hatteras.

Blow Expected Tonight

New England was removed from hurricane alert today although the seas in that area were rough and dangerous for small craft.

The Miami Weather Bureau said Connie was drifting to the northwest or north-northwest at between 6 and 7 miles an hour. Should that course be followed, she would crack the beach between Myrtle Beach, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., about 10 p. m. EDT.

At noon Connie was located about 110 miles south-southeast of Wilmington which already was getting winds of near hurricane force.

Hurricane or gale force winds were expected this afternoon and tonight between Georgetown, S. C., and the Virginia capes.

Hurricane force winds were fanning out 100 miles to the northeast and east of center and 50 miles to the southwest. Gales were howling for 300 miles to the northeast and 150 miles to the southwest.

The noon advisory report hurricane warnings up from Cape Hatteras, S. C., to the Virginia capes and northeast storm warnings raised from Savannah, Ga., to Block Island.

Warnings Are Heeded

Connie, who has been at almost a standstill for two days, gave plenty of warning. The beaches were bare. The people had fled. Everything was ready. The warnings this time had been heeded.

The busy seaport city of Wilmington, crowded with shipping, got winds of near hurricane force at mid-morning and rain was slanting down almost horizontally.

Tornadoes and freak storms spilled from Connie's giant weather front.

As the mid-Atlantic seaboard braced for the oncoming storm, New Englanders were allowed to breathe easier.

New York felt the first effects of hurricane Connie today. Advance winds pushed a heavy blanket of wet, thick fog over the entire metropolitan area, forcing the shutdown of the city's two commercial airports and slowing harbor traffic.

21 Workers in Lifeboats Dumped In Sea by Waves

BOSTON (AP)—Twenty-one volunteer workers being evacuated from the hurricane - threatened "Texas tower" radar island off Cape Cod were dumped into the sea today when 12-foot waves struck their lifeboats.

Eight of the 21 were injured slightly, the Coast Guard said.

Twenty-one of 43 workers being evacuated were dumped into the water when the heavy swells hit the boats. All were rescued immediately.

The evacuees left behind 60 low construction workers who labored feverishly to anchor the strange-looking "island," which presently is supported on only two of its three permanent legs and several temporary pilings.

The crew that remained behind to finish the welding of the steel connections between the 6,000-ton tower and its three steel legs will ride out the hurricane, if it strikes, inside the island.

Strauss Discloses U. S. Has Been Working Considerable Time to Harness H-Power

GENEVA (AP)—The United States announced today that it has been "working for a considerable time" to harness for peace the tremendous power of the hydrogen bomb.

Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission made the disclosure in answer to questions at the United Nations Atoms-for-Peace conference.

"But there has been nothing in the nature of a breakthrough," Strauss said.

He described the task as a problem "unprecedented in difficulty." Because of this, he said, he could not attempt to predict when it might be solved.

The formal American announcement made official a race to harness the H-bomb between the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

Control of the power of the hydrogen bomb, scientists said, would give man a source of power

Gov't Predicts Crops May Equal Record Output

WASHINGTON (AP)—A whopping big food and feed crop is in prospect for the 1955 harvest season. The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board said Wednesday the all-crop production for this year may equal the record output in 1948. This in spite of early season freezes, drought, insect damage, and government acreage and marketing curbs. Such a production would tax the nation's already-bulging storage bins containing surplus products from past years.

"Generally favorable" weather throughout most of the producing area during July is responsible for the prospective record-matching output, plus high yields per acre attributable to better farming techniques.

All major crops except wheat are heading for increased output over last year.

Corn, the major feed for livestock, is expected to hit almost 3,500,000,000 bushels, 17 per cent more than last year's production and not far below the 1948 record output of 3,605,000,000 bushels.

The fall harvest of wheat will add about 911,000,000 bushels to a carryover of about 1,000,000,000 bushels, providing enough of the important bread grain to supply this country's domestic and export needs for two years.

The prospective oat production is a record 1,625,000,000 bushels, 8 per cent more than last year, while hay was estimated at 109,000,000 tons, 5 per cent more than last year.

Prospective oat production is a record 1,625,000,000 bushels, 8 per cent more than last year, while hay was estimated at 109,000,000 tons, 5 per cent more than last year.

Soybeans also were in the champion class, with an estimated production of 420,000,000 bushels, 23 per cent above last year's crop. Potatoes were expected to weigh in at 399,000,000 bushels, 12 per cent more than last year.

The corn crop is expected to average 43.1 bushels per acre, a record. This compares with 37.1 bushels an acre in 1954 and a 10-year average of 36.4 bushels. Winter wheat yields were estimated at 20.3 bushels an acre, the third highest of record.

Quarles Named Air Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today appointed Donald A. Quarles, now assistant secretary of defense for research and development to be secretary of the Air Force.

Quarles will succeed Harold E. Talbot who resigned during a controversy over his private business while serving as Air Force secretary.

Quarles has been assistant defense secretary in charge of all the department's research and development, including guided missiles. Previously he had been an official of the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

He was vice president when he quit to join the Defense Department.

After serving as a field artillery captain in World War I, Quarles went with the Bell Laboratories in 1919. He is 61, and a fellow and former president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

His home town is Enfield, N. J., where he once was mayor.

He is married and has four children. His appointment was announced as the Air Force prepared an elaborate farewell ceremony today for Talbot.

Blast Wrecks Building in Ohio; 20 Killed

Searchers Fear Other Bodies Buried in Rubble

ANDOVER, Ohio (AP)—The bodies of 20 more persons were recovered today from the wreckage of a block-long building demolished Wednesday night by an explosion and fire, bringing to 20 the number of dead.

Neither of the new bodies was identified. They, like most of the others, were burned beyond recognition.

They were taken to a hastily assembled morgue in the garage of this small town's only funeral home.

Officials attempted to identify the charred victims after matching torsos with extremities which had been counted as separate bodies.

Rescue teams searched the smoking ruins for more dead, and one volunteer said "We'll be prodding this debris for a couple of days."

"We haven't even gotten into the rubble," the volunteer said. "Most of the bodies were taken from the top fringe of the debris."

He said rescuers worked with Army wreckage equipment and pick and shovels to clear away the debris.

"We work in teams with each group working until they are too tired or sickened by the smoke and stench," he said.

The deafening explosion ripped through the building at the height of a lashing rain and electrical storm during the dinner hour Wednesday night. Most of the victims, including 18 injured, had taken shelter in a dairy store and an adjoining restaurant when the blast happened.

Several victims trapped in the dairy store, burned beyond recognition, were found seated at tables with food before them.

Nancy Mock and Mike French, operators of the dairy, said at least 10 employees were in the store at the time. Only two were accounted for by early today. Miss Mock and French, who were standing outside when the explosion rocked the building, said they had smelled "something like sewer gas."

They said they had no idea how many customers were in the store at the time.

Bodies of the dead were covered with blankets and put in the temporary morgue in a nearby garage. No effort was made immediately to establish identities.

The injured, many in critical and serious condition, were taken to hospitals in Ashland, Youngstown and Canton.

James Strickler, program director for radio station WMTW, Meadville, Pa., reported from the scene that only a pile of debris remained where the big two-story brick building once stood. It housed four other commercial establishments besides the dairy and restaurant.

Two other buildings, one housing the Ohio Edison Telephone Co. exchange, were gutted by fire as flames spread rapidly. The town was isolated for several hours without telephone service or electric power. Hundreds of lines were felled by the heavy rain.

Air Force Praises Young Airman for Facing Problem of Wife's Remarriage

HONOLULU (AP)—Young Airman Daniel C. Schmidt won the praise of the Air Force today for courageously facing the problem created by the remarriage of his wife while he was in a Red Chinese jail.

But an Air Force spokesman asked reporters not to question Schmidt further about his marital troubles.

Schmidt and 10 other U. S. airmen who recently were freed from Red Chinese prisons where they were serving terms on "spy" charges arrived in Hawaii Wednesday on their way home.

All appeared joyful as they stepped off their planes to receive a typical Hawaiian reception but soon their mood changed.

Schmidt became glum when a reporter handed him a dispatch telling him that bigamy charges may be pressed against his 20-year-old wife, Una, for remarrying because she said she believed her husband was dead.

Airman Refuses Comment

When asked for comment, Schmidt shook his head, but he took the Nevada City, Calif., dispatch with him as he walked to his quarters.

In the other fliers.

In Nevada City, it was learned that Mrs. Schmidt was not bringing along her second husband when she meets Daniel on his arrival in California.

"Three's a crowd," she said. "Another incident marred the occasion of the airmen's return to U. S. soil."

Capt. Elmer Llewellyn of Missoula, Mont. was smiling as he stepped off his plane but began crying when newsmen questioned him about torture inflicted on him by his Chinese Communist captors.

"I certainly was tortured," Llewellyn said. "They gave me the works."

One reporter said he understood that Col. John K. Arnold Jr. had taken the brunt of the punishment, and that the Red Chinese had been easier on the remaining 10 captives.

"Like hell, they were," Llewellyn said.

Then Llewellyn broke down and

Red China Asks Far Eastern Conference On Korean Question

LONDON (AP)—Red China's Foreign Ministry called today for a Far Eastern conference "to seek peaceful settlement of the Korean question."

A New China News Agency broadcast said Communist China was seriously concerned by demands of the Republic of Korea that the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission leave the country. "The countries concerned should not stand idly by," the Red broadcast said.

Top Commanders Ask Rhee to End Clashes in Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Six hundred South Korean demonstrators tried today to storm the gates of the U. S. Army's Hialeah compound at Pusan but were driven back, fragmentary reports from the southern port city said.

It was the second major demonstration against the Hialeah compound in efforts by the Koreans to capture Communist members of the neutral nations truce supervisory team and followed an attack Wednesday against the Army compound at Wolmi Island off Inchon.

The Pusan reports said the 600 demonstrators were driven back by heavily armed American troops and that only 50 rioters remained at each of the two gates to the compound. There was no report of casualties.

South Koreans were reported laying siege to American compounds at Taegu and Kangnung but there were no reports of violence.

The new riots at Pusan, second major outbreak there this week, came as America's top Far Eastern military commanders asked President Syngman Rhee in a "get tough" meeting to end the week-long clashes.

Even then a band of 2,000 South Koreans were screaming defiance at the Communist truce inspectors on Wolmi island.

It was the eighth day of demonstrations against the Americans in the Korean efforts to drive the neutral nations armistice supervisory group out of Korea by Saturday midnight. Korea believes the Communist members of the group acted as Red spies.

The U. S. Army was caught in the middle. It was pledged to defend the truce inspectors but 26 American soldiers have been injured by flying bottles and rocks in the demonstrations by Korean army veterans, children and women with babies strapped on their backs.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, United Nations commander in the Far East, flew from Tokyo with Gen. I. D. White, commander of the U. S. 8th Army, to confer with the white-haired Korean leader. With them was U. S. Ambassador William Lacey.

After Rhee met the generals Dr. Hong Kee Karl, South Korea's official spokesman, issued a statement saying "it is greatly to be regretted that those who have come to our aid should be injured as a result of trouble with the Korean people."

But he blamed the United States for using "armed pressure upon us to protect Communist members" of the inspection teams.

Object of the Korean wrath at Wolmi were 10 truce inspectors including seven Polish and Czech members. The U. S. Army has ringed the island with barbed wire and heavily armed its men with rifles, bayonets and gas grenades backed up by heavy self-propelled weapons.

Ridgway Postal Clerk Arraigned Before Damron

Wilfred Roe, substitute postal clerk at the Ridgway post office, today waived preliminary hearing on a complaint charging that he converted to his own use money that had come into his hands as a postoffice employee.

Roe, about 35, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. W. Damron in Harrisburg this morning. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Damron upon complaint of O. W. Norworthy, postal inspector.

Roe is charged with converting over a period of time, approximately $3,000 to his own use while working as a substitute clerk.

Commissioner Damron, after Roe waived preliminary hearing, set the bond at $3,000. Roe was taken to the Benton jail and will be moved from there to East St. Louis by a U. S. marshal.

C119s Loaded With Paratroops Collide in Air

Part of Nine-Plane Flight on Training Mission

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Two U. S. Air Force C119 Flying Boxcars loaded with American paratroopers collided near here today and crashed in flames killing 66 men, an Air Force spokesman announced.

The announcement by the 12th Air Force said:

"Two Air Force C119 troop carriers crashed this afternoon about 30 miles west of Stuttgart and initial reports indicated that 66 persons on board were killed."

"The C119s were part of a nine-plane flight which had just taken off from Echterdingen Airfield, near Stuttgart, on a training mission with troops from 7th Army aboard."

"Initial reports said that one plane developed engine trouble just a few minutes after takeoff, after reaching a cruising level of 4,000 feet."

"The crippled plane lost altitude momentarily, then pulled up abruptly across the front of another aircraft in the formation."

"The crippled plane went down immediately."

"The first plane to crash had 41 passengers and a crew of 5 plus one loadmaster on board."

"The second plane carried 14 passengers, a crew of 4 and a loadmaster."

"The crashes occurred at 2:18 German time (6:18 a. m. CST). The second plane flew level for almost one minute, then went out of control and nosed into the ground."

"The accident occurred less than 15 minutes after takeoff," the announcement concluded.

Witnesses told of the breathless minute after the air collision when one of the two planes fought to stay in the air.

The pilot lost the fight to keep his plane up and it wavered and plunged into the ground behind the first plane.

Fire spouted high above the wreckage. Both planes apparently slammed into the earth out of control. There was little chance for any of the men aboard to live.

The transport plane was climbing for the aerial maneuver when the collision knocked them from the sky.

Police to Curb Motorbike Riders Without Licenses

Chief of Police Ross Lane today said that to curb the riding of motor scooters and motorbikes by boys who do not have driver's licenses.

He said he had received numerous complaints from both motorists and pedestrians of young boys on motorbikes going through stop signs without halting and doing other acts.

He pointed out that the state law provides that all operators of any motor-driven vehicle must have a driver's license and the age for securing a license is 16.

He urged parents to co-operate with the police in stopping the children who do not have driver's licenses from riding motorbikes and motor scooters.

A few days ago, he said, five youths on motorbikes, riding tick-ticks and their parents summoned to the city hall.

Getting Acquainted

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT
The bigness of the big is one of America's recurrent worries. In politics the words "big business" and "monopoly" have the potency of biting on an aching tooth.

Considerable light is thrown on the nature of America's big corporations in an article in Fortune Magazine. The new facts should have a calming effect on those who see business boogymen in their nightmares.

Fortune found that the big were giants, all right. About 500 U. S. corporations produce one-fourth of the free world's industrial output. This is half of the total output of the United States.

But, surprisingly, it isn't anything new. Since 1909, the share of all industrial assets accounted for by the 100 largest industrial corporations has been just about a constant 25 per cent.

Nor is the situation startling, as those who wag their fingers in warning would have us believe.

"Since 1939," comments Fortune, "the number of mining and manufacturing companies has increased from about 240,000 to 300,000, or by 50 per cent."

The conclusion is that the size of the Big 500 is no threat to competitiveness if the business birth rate and population statistics mean anything.

There were found to be 21 firms in the 500 which each did more than a billion dollars in sales last year. General Motors was tops with about 10 billion. Standard Oil (N. J.) had over five billion in sales. U. S. Steel was third with more than three billion.

There has been a sneaking suspicion in some circles that when big business gets bigger it cannot escape a destiny of service rather than profits. Shaving prices and manufacturing costs to the bone to increase sales could not lead elsewhere.

The new study tends to confirm this. Big sales were to guarantee profits. One firm, fifth in total sales, was 98th in net profits. Another, 37th in sales, was 354th in profits. All the list was similarly juggled.

By another measurement the figures were even more reassuring to the public. When profits were considered on the basis of percentage of sales or of assets, the biggest were far from top performers.

Considered this way, General Motors was in 81st position and the other biggies were similarly out-ranked by smaller firms.

The 21 corporations which topped a billion in annual sales averaged a modest 7.5 per cent net profits on these sales. This compares with 6 per cent for all 500 as a group and 4.6 per cent for all manufacturing and mining concerns. Some of the list of individual smaller companies picked off up to 36 per cent.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Republican Leaders Do What Democrats Did Re FDR In 1944; Eisenhower Thwarts Their Strategy; Unlike FDR, Ike Is Determined Not To Run.

WASHINGTON. — What's happening inside the Republican camp today is almost identical with what happened inside the Democratic high command in 1944 — with one important exception.

Like the Democratic bosses of a decade ago with FDR, Republican leaders today are determined to nominate Eisenhower again, regardless of age, health, or anything else.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was engaged with world affairs. The war was almost won. He was already concentrating on the problems of peace. Domestic affairs had been largely delegated to others. Some of them were not in good shape. Democratic leaders knew that if they picked any candidate, that if the election campaign were run on domestic issues, they would lose.

So a careful publicity campaign began not only to make Roosevelt the indispensable man but to conceal from the public the true facts about his health.

And in July, 1944, as the Democrats gathered in Chicago to pick their candidate, Roosevelt started on a cruise up the west coast to Alaska—physically for his health. Simultaneously, Bob Hannegan, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Ed Kelley of Chicago, and other party bosses, knowing that Roosevelt could not possibly last a full term, concentrated on the choice of their own man for vice president.

It was one of the most deceitful strategies ever put across on the voting public.

GOP LEADERS REPEAT
Today, Republican leaders are equally determined to nominate Dwight Eisenhower, in part for the same reasons. They know that any other Republican candidate would have a hard time winning. They know that on domestic issues—Dixie-Yates, farm prices, big business monopoly — the Republicans face a rough campaign. But on international issues they feel Eisenhower has struck a winning streak and can be promoted as the "indispensable man."

However, there is one big difference. Eisenhower so far hasn't bought the GOP line.

Unlike Roosevelt, who was willing to go along with party leaders, Eisenhower has been telling them for months that they had to pick new young leaders, that he was not going to run again.

On Jan. 4, this column reported in detail on one of the private dinners at the White House at which Ike told his closest friends that they must begin building up new.

"dynamic" men to replace him. This writer has consistently reported—with one exception—that Ike did not want to run again. The exception was a column written from Geneva, where it seemed to this observer that Ike had hit his stride, was doing the things he likes best to do, and probably could be persuaded to run again on a "peace-in-our-time" platform.

However, the recent meeting he had with Senator George Bender and other Ohio Republicans indicates to the contrary and is more significant than the public realizes. For Senator Bender and friends did not want to tell newsmen what Ike had told them. They had to be prodded by the White House into making a statement.

George Bender is quite a friendly, loquacious fellow. He talks to the press at the drop of a hat. But he did not want to give newsmen the discouraging news that Ike considered age a detriment to running again.

And it was only when Ike's press officer intervened and asked the Ohioans to report what he had told them that they spilled the news that GOP leaders had heard privately, but hated to hear publicly. In brief, the President deliberately wanted published the fact that he would be the oldest President in history if re-elected and his feeling that the burden of the presidency erodes a man's health.

HEALTH EXAMS FOR CANDIDATES
Eisenhower deserves a lot of credit for being so frank with the American public. FDR was not so frank.

Ike's frankness coincides with sentiment in Congress to set up a medical board to examine all presidential candidates of both parties before the nominating conventions. The fact that Senator Taft, Republican, died shortly after an election which might have made him President; that Wendell Willkie, Republican, died shortly after a nominating convention which might have picked him for a second term; and the fact that Franklin Roosevelt, Democrat, died just four months after taking the oath of office has spurred the idea of health examinations no matter who the candidate.

For the fact is, as Eisenhower indicated, that the presidency of the United States is the most physically crushing office in the world. And while the life span of the average American has increased, the life span of presidents has decreased under that crushing burden.

Over one-fifth of our presidents have died or been killed in office—seven in all—incidentally all being Republicans except Roosevelt. And the significant fact is that they have been dying younger as this country has grown bigger and the strain of the most difficult job in the world has increased.

Only three presidents were as old as Eisenhower when elected, two of them being generals. One, William Henry Harrison, lived one month after being elected. The other, General Zachary Taylor, lived little more than a year as President.

Taking the ages of the 33 past presidents, 60 per cent of them lived to the age of 66—which will be Eisenhower's age at the end of his first term.

In more recent years our presidents have died younger. Of the last 22 presidents, only 50 per cent have lived to the age of 66, while of the last 15 presidents, only 46 per cent have lived to the age of Eisenhower will reach at the end of his first term.

These are the sobering facts Eisenhower has been considering, and one reason why he talked to Ohio Republicans so frankly about the erosion of age in the life of any man who occupies the White House.

Bulgaria Offers Compensation For Plane Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bulgaria has apologized to the United States and offered to pay compensation for the death of 12 Americans killed last month aboard an Israeli airliner shot down by Bulgarian fighter planes.

A State Department spokesman said today the offer was carried in a reply to a stiff U. S. protest dispatched shortly after the incident. The protest and reply were channeled through Switzerland because the United States and Bulgaria do not have diplomatic relations.

The airliner, bound from London to Tel Aviv, was shot down July 27, killing all 58 aboard. Bulgaria claimed the plane had strayed off its normal course across Yugoslavia.

The Bulgarians originally said the airliner was downed by anti-aircraft fire but later admitted that fighter planes were responsible. It said the fighters had been "too hasty" and promised punishment for those responsible.

The State Department said the formal reply to the United States followed the same general line. It said the Bulgarians apologized for the incident, promised to punish the offenders and offered compensation to the families of Americans killed aboard the airliner. The United States had demanded all of these.

Will Gentry looked over his bow-tied head at Timothy Rourke, and neither of his two best friends knew what to say to him at the moment. Rourke finally picked Lucy's note up and studied it again with narrowed eyes, then shook his head helplessly.

"Blessed if I can decipher any secret message in it. Listen, Will. Don't you have an ex-Army Intelligence officer on your staff whose supposed to be a whiz at cryptograms and codes?"

"Nuts to your expert," said Michael Shayne wearily. "I've told you Lucy is no expert. Anything in here is meant for me alone. Calling me Dearest Boss wouldn't mean anything to your code expert. He'd have no way of knowing she hadn't written me hundreds of love letters in the past — any more than Switzer knew it. Whatever she was trying to say, she had to put so Switzer would accept it as perfectly normal under the circumstances. But she had to trust me to get the nuances and put them together logically." He got up angrily and went to the wall cupboard for another glass.

"Better go easy on the brandy," cautioned Gentry. "If you are so certain there's something hidden in her letter, you need a clear head to find it."

Michael Shayne laughed jarringly. "Maybe that's what's the matter with us. The more you apply logic, the less you rely on inner knowledge. On hunches. Time and again in my own life, I've suddenly known something was true. I didn't know how I knew it. It just was."

Shayne paused, glaring at Will Gentry in defiance. "It's here, Will. He struck the sheet of paper with his fist."

"She calls me Boss," he reminded the two men harshly. "She says it's her last love letter when she never wrote me a love letter before. She writes 'we girls'." His harsh voice made a parody of the two words.

"There are a dozen more examples as you read on," he continued fiercely. "Do not do anything to hurt this man! And mazzuma! A word Lucy would never normally use. And then the corny ending, 'Please, please realize, Mike, that I love only you—even to the very end.'"

Shayne lifted his glass, still staring down at Lucy's letter. His features tightened suddenly as his gaze fixed on the letter. In a choked voice he demanded of the other two: "Is there a Saltair Street in Miami?"

Chief Gentry shook his head doubtfully, but Tim Rourke showed alert interest.

"Yes, I'm sure there is, Mike. One of those streets far out in the Northeast section that cross Biscayne Boulevard and deadend against the bay."

Shayne whirled on Gentry. "The Northeast section! From Hugh Alderice's story, that's about where Switzer ditched Arlene Bristow." He snatched up the telephone and shoved it at the chief of police.

Though Rourke had never experienced a faster ride out the Boulevard than he had that night, there were already three radio cars clustered together in front of the boarded mansion on Saltair Street where it came to a dead-end against Biscayne Bay when they arrived.

Searchlights were turned on the isolated house, and as Shayne pulled up behind the police cars, two uniformed men came around from the bay side of the house each supporting a slender feminine figure.

Shayne leaped out and ran forward to catch Lucy Hamilton in his arms away from her uniformed rescuer. Her face was streaked with dirt and tears.

"It's all over, Angel. Relax. You're okay."

"I knew you'd find me, Michael! I knew you would. I kept thinking as soon as he reads my letter he'll know. But it was so long, Michael! I didn't know when he'd show you the letter. I didn't know how long we'd have to wait. And the air was getting worse, all the time."

"It's all right," Shayne reassured her gruffly. "It's ended. I did get the letter, and I finally did figure it out. Nothing else matters now. It was clever of you, Angel."

"Too clever for me to figure out yet," said Rourke aggrievedly, trotting along beside them with the letter in his hands. "Give me the dope on it fast, Mike. I got maybe 20 minutes to get a story in the early edition. How did Lucy put it in — and how did you figure Saltair Street on the bay from this note?"

Shayne grinned down at Lucy and said, "It must have been plenty tough figuring out the right words on the spur of the moment while Switzer was watching you. I told you and Will, he went on blandly to Rourke, 'that a dozen things in the letter made me realize Lucy was trying to point the way for me.'"

"The pay-off was her phrase, last love letter. And to the very end. Add those to the other curious words I pointed out that Lucy wouldn't normally use: Boss, mazzuma. Phony words or expressions for Lucy to use."

"You said all that back in your apartment," Rourke reminded him impatiently. "But how do they add up to tell where we found her?"

"The last letter of each line," said Shayne. "Beginning with the S on Boss and reading down, 'Saltair Street dead end! Go write your story, Tim. I'm taking Lucy home.'"

Hancock-Bynum Marriage Solemnized At McKinley Avenue Baptist Church

Soft glowing tapers illuminated the altar of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church Sunday afternoon, August 7, for the wedding of Miss Betty June Hancock, daughter of Mr. Arthur Hancock and the late Mr. Hancock, and Thomas Gene Bynum, son of Mrs. Hilda Bynum of Detroit, Mich.

Ferns and baskets of white gladioli adorned a white background and arch before which Rev. J. D. McCarty officiated at the double ring ceremony at three o'clock.

Miss Norma Cannon at the organ played appropriate wedding music and later the traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Maynard Cannon, who sang "Always," "I Love You Truly," and as a benediction "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Jack Hancock, was dressed in a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace and net featuring a close fitting strapless bodice with a lace jacket which had long sleeves tapering over the hands. Cashier Held in $26,000 Shortage

NEW YORK (AP) — A 26-year-old bank cashier was held in $10,000 bail today for embezzling $26,000 which he lost betting on the horses.

William Gravius, who told federal authorities earlier this week that $26,000 he put on the floor of the bank vault disappeared, confessed Wednesday that he began betting the bank's money to cover a $20,000 shortage which he discovered in the bank's books.

The original shortage was a mystery to him, Gravius said, though he now believes it might have been just a bookkeeping error.

Seeks Two in $312,000 Robbery

NEW YORK — The FBI today held three men charged with robbing a Queens bank of a record $312,219.42, and agents sought two other suspects.

The pair still being sought are

Kedmond Cribbin, 43, a paroled murderer and Thomas F. Connelly Jr., 30, whose two small children were found abandoned recently in Baltimore, Md., and Wilmington, Del.

The FBI said Wednesday its agents had arrested James McCoo, 36, Frank Cocchiaro, 34, and Vincent W. Kritt, 28, in connection with the robbery of a Chase Manhattan branch bank in Woodside, Queens, April 6.

The FBI said McCoo was arrested at his home. The others were picked up on the street. They had only a few dollars between them, agents said.

The FBI said they refused to talk about the holdup that netted the largest cash haul in the nation's history.

First Auto Race
The first international automobile race at the Indianapolis speedway was won by Ray Harroun, who was driving a Marmon car "Wasp." The course was 500 miles and the time was an average of 74.59 miles per hour.

Former House Investigator Arrested On Charge Removing Air Force File

WASHINGTON — A former House Un-American Activities committee investigator was arrested today on charges of removing and revealing the contents of a highly secret Air Force file on a one-time prominent Communist.

The former investigator Rea S. Van Fossom, an ex-Air Force captain was arrested at his home at Silver Springs, Mo., near here. The arrest was announced by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.

Brownell said that a District of Columbia grand jury returned an eight count sealed indictment against Van Fossom late Wednesday.

The indictment charged the former Air Force officer with unlawfully removing and converting to his own use a classified document from the files of the Air Force's Office of Special Investigations (OSI). It also charged him with six counts of making false statements to OSI investigators about the document.

The indictment said the document contained information on Jay Lovestone, one-time executive secretary of the Communist party and now executive secretary of the "Free Trade Union committee of the AFL."

Van Fossom resigned from the Air Force on Nov. 23, 1954, "for the good of the service." The Air Force said this amounted to "a discharge other than honorable."

On Nov. 24, Van Fossom was hired by the Un-American Activities committee as a special investigator at $8,200 a year. He left the committee in January.

Second Lie Test Given Murder Suspect

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A suspect in the sex slaying of pretty Mrs. Wilma Allen, who failed to satisfy police with his first lie detector test, will undergo another test today.

Mrs. Allen, 34, wife of prominent Kansas City automobile dealer William R. Allen Jr. and mother of two children, disappeared one week ago today from a shopping village near her home.

Her nude body, hands tied behind her back with her scarf, was found last Sunday in a pasture about 15 miles southwest of Kansas City. She had been shot twice in the head.

Sgt. Wayne Gibson, homicide detective, said the suspect who took an unsatisfactory lie detector test Wednesday was picked up near the vicinity where Mrs. Allen's blood-smeared convertible was found early last Friday morning.

The man is employed in the area, Gibson said, and has not been at work since last Wednesday.

"We're not satisfied with the lie detector test," Gibson said, adding that the suspect would undergo another test today.

Police still sought a "light-skinned Negro" who reportedly drove into a filling station near the pasture where Mrs. Allen's body was found in an automobile resembling the victim's car. The filling station operator, Richard B. Seward, said the car suddenly sped away and he watched it turn off onto a side road into a field near the spot where the body was found.

Louvered panels are coming rage. Cut to about half the door height and fastened halfway up each side, they make charming swinging doors for a decorative kitchen or alcove. They can also be used as inside shutters (in place of curtains) for a room that can take rough-and-tumble.

County Chairmen to Nominate Legislative Candidates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special to The Register) — Republican and Democrat downstate county chairmen have been given increased authority in a new role. The new legislative apportionment law has cast them as nominating committees for 34 new downstate senate and 30 new representative districts. They get permanent status in the former and temporary status in the latter under two plans, one for seven single county districts and the other for two or more county districts.

In the seven downstate counties, each of which comprises a representative district, the county chairman and two members of the county central committee picked by him, will be the nominating committee and a chairman may be counted on to pick two who will go along with his thinking. After the April, 1956 primary, single county house district nominating committees will consist of three elected to the posts, same as heretofore.

The seven counties where county chairmen will be all-powerful next year in determining how many seats his party will seek in the new 1957 House—one, or two or three—are Madison, Kane, Will, DuPage, Sangamon, Winnebago, and Lake. After the primary elected committees will fill vacancies as a House nominee dies or withdraws. Two other downstate counties—Peoria and St. Clair—which continue as single House districts, retain their present method of three elected committees.

Other Districts

In new representative districts of two or more counties, county chairmen of each party of each county will comprise the nominating committee up to the April primary. After that elected committees from each county will take over. In House districts of two counties, two committees will be elected from the larger county, one from the smaller county. In house districts of three or more counties, the county chairmen of each party will be elected from each county to the nominating committee.

UNHAPPY HOMECOMING—With Sherman Lollar of the White Sox sprawled on the ground after making the tag, a shocked Andy Carey sees and hears Nestor Chylak call him out at the Yankee Stadium. Berra's bat.

Play Begins In Richest Golf Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—Golf's richest tournament, the $157,200 "World" championship at Tam O'Shanter, opened today with 150 men pros in pursuit of the top prize of $106,000.

Chasing for lesser awards were 23 women pros, aiming for the major prize of $5,000 out of a $12,000 purse, 15 men amateurs and 12 women amateurs, with the top award for the winner in each division to be $150 in merchandise from a total kitty of $1,150.

Interest centered, however, in the men's professional division, which will pay the low scorer after 72 holes over this 6,915-yard course —$50,000 in cash, $50,000 in a contract for 50 exhibitions, and $1,000 for caddy fees.

Though presumably each of the 165 contenders has a chance to win, speculation centered on Doug Ford, the PGA champion who last week shot a 11-under-par 277 for the same number of holes on the same course, to win the "All American." Leo Biagetti, runner-up to Ford; Peter Thomson, the top ranking foreign player; and Ted Kroll were rated major challengers.

Also in the field were top ranking money winners for 1955, Cary Middlecoff, Mike Souchak, Gene Littler, Bob Rosburg, Tommy Bolt, Billy Maxwell and Jerry Barber.

Sixteen of the contenders warmed up Wednesday with matches involving the eight top American pros in the "All American" against the eight top foreign players in the second annual "International Cup Match."

The event was won by the Americans for the second straight year, 1-2 to 3-1, compared to a 1-2 triumph by a 6-1-2 to 5-1-2 tally.

Carmen Basilio Wins One-Sided Non-Title Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, disappointed with his loss, non-title victory over Italo Scorticini, said today, "I thought the crowd was booing me, so I shot the works and got tired in the late rounds."

He was chastened because it was his first appearance as champion. In his non-title fight with Gil Turner next month there'll be no repetition of the all-out aggressiveness that featured his decision victory over Scorticini 10 days ago. By winning the Yanks climbed to within a half game of first place, four percentage points behind the White Sox and six behind the Indians.

Boston shortstop Billy Klaus set the stage for the winning run when he bobbled Yogi Berra's leadoff grounder in the 13th. After a sacrifice, an intentional walk and an infield pop-up, Carey smashed a drive over left fielder Ted Williams' head to bring home Berra with the tie-breaker. Big Frank Sullivan went all the way and gave up five hits, the same number as Larsen.

Magic Crystals Instantly Make New A&P Milk

An instant nonfat dry milk, with the true flavor and protein food value of fresh milk, will be introduced Aug. 12 at the A & P Store, Lewis Fulkerston, manager, announced today.

The magic milk crystals, so soluble they dissolve instantly even in ice water, are made with a new process developed by a research team at the White House Milk Company, Inc., Manitowish, Wis., a subsidiary of the nation's foremost food chain.

Researchers said the new process eliminates various preparation and taste problems involved in home use of nonfat dry milk products.

The product is fresh, pasteurized milk from which the butterfat and water have been removed. Company researchers said it contains the same amount of protein, calcium and other minerals, milk sugar and vitamins as fresh milk.

As originally introduced, nonfat dry milk solids were reconstituted by adding water, beating or shaking vigorously and storing overnight under refrigeration. The new instant milk product, however, is ready to serve immediately after adding water and stirring lightly.

A major advantage for the instant product is its easy use as a beverage for children or adults on a low-calorie diet, it was pointed out. An eight-ounce glass of milk made from water and six tablespoons of White House instant contains only 81 calories.

The product is stored without refrigeration and will keep indefinitely in the package.

Indians Move Into First Place as Grand Slam Homer By Kiner Beats Tigers, 6-4

By United Press

Al Lopez promised his Cleveland Indians would be back in first place and that's exactly where they were today all because of Ralph Kiner, who made a few special promises himself.

The 32-year-old Kiner, plagued by a bad back and reduced to part-time status, propelled the Indians into the American league lead by blasting a ninth-inning grand slam homer that beat the Tigers, 6-4. Wednesday night, Kiner's homer was the 365th of his career and it moved the Indians two percentage points ahead of the White Sox, who slipped to second place by bowing to the Athletics, 5-4.

"It's high time I did something to help this club," Kiner said just before Wednesday night's game with Detroit. "My back feels a lot better tonight than it has in some time. If I get a chance to hit some pitcher might feel sorry."

Kiner received his chance in the seventh inning when he came in as a pinch hitter for Gene Woodling with the bases full but Al Aber struck him out. Kiner remained in the game and got another chance with the bases full in the ninth. Aber was still pitching and Kiner kept his promise by slamming the ball over the left field fence for his 14th and most important homer of the year.

Two Other Distinctions

The blow gave the ex-National league home run king two other distinctions. It gave him a total of 1,001 runs batted in for his career and made him the leader among active players with 13 grand-slam homers.

Until Kiner came through with his game-clinching clout, the Tigers led 4-2 on Earl Torgeson's two-run homer in the seventh inning. Al Rosen and Hal Naragon also homered for the Indians.

Hector Lopez' sixth inning home run proved to be the deciding blow in Kansas City's victory over Chicago although the White Sox came within one run of tying the game in the eighth, a frame in which Bob Nieman homered, Minnie Minoso also homered off winner Alex Kellner with one on in the fifth. Harry Byrd was the loser.

Andy Carey's single in the 13th inning gave the Yankees a 3-2 decision over the Red Sox and Don Larsen his third straight triumph since returning from the minors 10 days ago. By winning the Yanks climbed to within a half game of first place, four percentage points behind the White Sox and six behind the Indians.

Boston shortstop Billy Klaus set the stage for the winning run when he bobbled Yogi Berra's leadoff grounder in the 13th. Dodgers Increase Lead

In the National league, the pace-setting Dodgers hopped on Ramon Montzant for five runs on five hits in the first three innings to beat the Giants, 5-4, in a game called during the seventh inning because of rain. The victory pushed the defending world champions 18 games off the pace, in third place.

Cincinnati climbed to within 1-1-2 games of fifth place by beating Chicago twice, 7-2 and 6-3 with rookie Don Gross getting credit for the opening game victory and Art Fowler the nightcap. Ted Kluszewski slammed his 37th homer off loser Warren Hacker in the second game while Ernie Banks hit his 38th.

The Cardinals snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Braves, 7-2, with the aid of three hits by Stan Musial, including his 1,000th extra base blow. Tom Poholsky hurled a six-hitter for his sixth victory.

Jerry Lynch's 10th inning single gave the Pirates a 3-2 triumph over the Phillies as Bob Friend registered his ninth victory of the year and ended a four-game Phillies' winning streak. Frank Thomas homered for Pittsburgh.

Ferry Ride Convinced Boston Red Sox They Could Win

NEW YORK (NEA) — Coming into New York from the south, the Red Sox are ferried across the Hudson River.

"It was on this ferry the night of July 3 that I knew we could win the pennant," says one of the older members of the party. "We were coming from Baltimore, had been rolling along since Billy Klaus took over at shortstop on June 8."

"Even when we had our better team and chances, the Yankees were the sole topic of conversation when we headed for Yankee Stadium. You heard stuff like, 'If we can only get out of here alive,' 'If we can only break even.'"

"But this night, on the ferry, with all hands admiring the New York skyline, the Yankees were not mentioned once. At long last, they were just another chore to the Red Sox."

"That's when I was convinced that we could take it all."

"And when we swept the doubleheader on July 4, the rest of the boys felt the same way."

HERE'S A CHEERY note for football coaches. John Dorman, 77, has devoted 50 years to dispensing gridiron know-how at one school, Upper Iowa University. Dorman has run up more years as head man than anyone in the game while taking time off to practice dentistry at Fayette, Ia.

For longevity, the tip is to steer clear of the ulcerous pressures of big time. Five other small-college and one major-college coach who have put in 30 or more years since as top kicks as compiled from the information-packed Official Collegiate Football Record Book, which has just hit the news stands.

Lon Little of Columbia is one of the handful of major-college coaches who go with the lease. Little has been at his business 31 seasons, the last 25 on Morningside Heights, where he doesn't even have to make a good showing in the Ivy League.

Second in line in terms of service is Fred Long of Texas College with 34 campaigns. Then come Ossie Solem of Springfield, Mass., College, 33; Harry Jefferson, Hampton, Va., Institute, 32; Little; Arnett Mumford of Southern University, La., 30. Two major-college and one small-college coach enter the 30-year class after this season. They are distinguished Dr. Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross, Rutgers; Harvey Harman and Carl Doehling of Ripon College in Wisconsin. So, you see, in some cases coaching football is not as precarious an occupation as you have been led to believe.

A new world record was established at Keeneland when noddled heads, fingered ears, hand waves, vocal assent and an occasional swatted fly were translated into $3,866,200, an average of $11,174 for 346 winners.

At the Saratoga edition several years ago, Everett Clay, secretary of the Hialeah Race Course, waved to a friend in the press section. The result was that he was on the

Tribe's Coach, Red Kress, So Valuable Players Bought Him Car

By MURRAY OLDERMAN NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — "Ugh," granted Red Kress in a manner best befitting an Indian.

It was the end of another tough day—bating fungoes, pitching bating practice, nailing in a first base coaching box for nine innings, clapping, exhorting, slumping — heap plenty work for a fellow two years older than the 43 they have him down for in the record book.

Mike Garcia, biggest of the Tribe, tapped him on the shoulder. "Come on, Red, I'll give you a lift. Bring along your wife. Maybe we'll stop for a cup of coffee."

Garcia cruised by an auto showroom.

"Gotta stop here a second," said Mike. "Come on in where it's cool."

Kress ran his fingers admiringly over the hatted metal of a sleek, low-slung new model. "Nice car," he muttered.

"You like it?" squinted Garcia. "Here's the keys. It's yours."

In an unprecedented act of gratefulness, almost every member of the Cleveland Indians had chipped in, in varying sums from Al Rosen's $250 contribution on down to give their coach a new car. Ball players are supposed to be notorious nickel-nurses.

"It's not everything but a built-in bar and lavatory," whistled Red. "Why'd they do it?"

For one, Red's always available for special batting practice on call, this in addition to hitting during pre-game workouts. The one-time shortstop (he toiled 13 years in the American League) has an arm of rubber and radar accuracy.

The watch Red carries on his wrist was given to him a half dozen years ago by Sid Gordon, who says, "If it weren't for Red Kress, I'd be driving a truck instead of a Cadillac."

Back when both were with the Giants, Red took Sid aside and said, "Look, your power is to left and right center, which don't do you any good in the Polo Grounds. Give your strength should be peeling the ball down the line. Let's go out in the mornings, and I'll pitch, and you open up your stance, and we'll make a new hitter out of you."

Gordon clouted 30 homers that season, more than double his previous output.

But it's not only the hitters on the Indians who appreciate Red. It's the pitchers, too. Bob Lemon got the car idea started. The elder statesman of the Cleveland hurling staff all over around the 35-year-old state. They don't much relish the idea of getting out under a mid-day blazing sun to throw batting practice. It's nice to have a handy guy like Red around so

Man Prone to Series Of 'Little Strokes'

CHICAGO (AP)—A series of "little strokes" over the course of 10 or 20 years is one of the most common afflictions of man, a Chicago physician said in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The "little strokes" come from plugging of small arteries in the brain. They result in damage to brain tissue from the cutting off of circulation, wrote Dr. Walter C. Alvarez.

Onset of disease can possible be delayed by keeping weight down and reducing the amount of cholesterol (a fat-like substance) in the diet, he said.

Alvarez said the disease might be suspected when:

1. A person past 38 or so has a mental and nervous disability out of all proportion to the little indigestion, abdominal or chest pain complained of.
2. A nervous breakdown or a strange group of symptoms come suddenly on a certain day; and
3. After a dizzy spell, blackout, or perhaps a fall, there came decided changes in character and perhaps an inability to work.

1,060 Stricken With Polio in Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts appealed for 43 nurses today to care for the mounting number of victims of a polio epidemic that has stricken 1,060 persons.

The number of victims jumped over the epidemic mark of 1,000 Wednesday as 134 cases were reported. At this time last year there were only 98 cases.

As the appeal for additional nurses went out, hospital administrators prepared for the worst from Hurricane Connie. Emergency generators were borrowed to keep iron lungs operating in the event of hurricane-caused power failures.

Ten iron lungs lent by the Navy Wednesday boosted the total respirators in use in Boston to 52.

"We have reached the bottom of the barrel as far as nurses are concerned," said Dr. Roy F. Feemster, Massachusetts director of communicable diseases.

"The nurses now handling polio patients are tired and need relief," he said. "There is no question but we will need nurses shortly from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis."

The community nursing committee met Wednesday and determined that 43 nurses would be the minimum number needed immediately to fill vacancies in four Boston hospitals. These hospitals are caring for many patients from outside the city.

The state Nurses Association sent 4,000 letters to trained nurses asking their help.

In Washington, Rep. Thomas J. Lane (D-Mass.) asked the Army surgeon general for military nurses and Medical Corps personnel to help fight the epidemic.

Dr. Joseph P. Reardon of the state Health Department said it was a "mild epidemic."

Nickell Awards School Surplus Food Contract

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell today awarded the state school surplus food handling and distribution contract to Cox Transit Co. of Springfield.

The contract was signed by Nickell and Billie M. Cox, head of the firm, after Nickell's return from a trip to Washington where U. S. Department of Agriculture officials approved the pact.

The contract gives Cox the authority to receive, store and deliver federally-provided surplus foods to Illinois schools and institutions.

However, the meaning of a provision in the proposal permitting recipients to "make their own arrangements for receiving, storing and distributing of commodities" was still not clear.

Chicago school officials have indicated they may withdraw from the state contract and handle the foodstuffs on their own. But USDA officials said Nickell could force all schools to participate in the food program under the state contract if he wished. Nickell said this still must be settled.

Cox' offer to handle and deliver the food was $1.31 for dry storage foods, $1.71 for refrigerator storage, and $2.11 for freezer storage. All three prices were far under the figures of Dunbar & Co., the next lowest bidder. But Cox at first had difficulty in providing a $300,000 performance bond and insurance demanded by Nickell.

Night is Time to Decide on House

CHICAGO (AP)—"Before you buy that dream house, go back and look at every room and closet after dark."

That was the advice issued by the American Home Lighting Institute which said that lighting is the most neglected feature in the average home building and home furnishing plan.

A recent survey showed that only $32.14 worth of light fixtures is in the average home though a minimum of $200 is required, the institute said. It offered this six-point check list for prospective home buyers:

1. Make sure there is at least one ceiling fixture in every room, closet and hall.
2. Look for valance or cornice lighting installations over the drape window.
3. Make certain living and dining room walls are fully lighted.
4. Check kitchen lighting to make sure there is an overhead fixture as well as specific lights for the sink and other work areas.
5. Make sure that there is a ceiling fixture plus lights on both sides of the mirror in the bathroom.
6. Check that all stairway, entrances and garage doors are light-

Chas. Barker Jr. Receives Citation At Naval Shipyard

Chas. Barker Jr., whose father is superintendent of the Carmac Coal Co., and who was born and reared in Harrisburg, has received special recognition at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard in California.

The commander of the shipyard, L. V. Honsinger, notified him June 27 that a Superior Accomplishment award in the amount of $200, was merited by the performances of assigned duties in exemplary manner. He subsequently has been advanced to the rank of electrician from electrician helper in Shop 51 at the naval yard.

News of the award was withheld as a vacation surprise for the electrician's father, who has himself always done right well in whatever job he has undertaken, and has recently returned from a visit with Charles Jr.

Young Barker is in the jet propulsion business for the Navy electric department at Shop 51, and on the U. S. Sotoyomo.

The citation reads: "In recommending this award, your supervisor stated that for the past year you have shown a devotion to duty and consistently superior performance of assigned duties. In view of your recognized ability, your work assignments have been of a higher caliber than is usually required of employees holding similar ratings and the manner in which you have solved problems and accepted responsibility beyond that normally expected is highly commendable. On the USS Sotoyomo you acted as representative for your leadingman, giving work assignments to the crew selected for this job and the completed work was exceptional in all respects."

Qualifications for A School Board

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A Harvard sociologist says the ideal school board member is a person who can act quickly and inexpensively, especially on matters he doesn't know anything about.

Neal Gross, head of the Harvard school of executive studies, told a University of Michigan conference that school board members should have the following qualifications:

1. A heart of gold, a mind of steel and a nervous system of elastic.
2. A built-in telephone holder over left shoulder and a built-in tear-absorbent on his right.
3. An uncanny ability to make astute and penetrating policy decisions about which he has no knowledge.
4. Be a person who loves to be hooked by gobbledy-gook or educational jargon.
5. Be able to explain lucidly to parents that a straight line for the school bus is not necessarily from door to door.
6. Be able to buy aspirin at a 50 per cent discount.
7. Know how to increase teacher salaries and build new school buildings while lowering the tax rate.
8. Be a King Solomon who can negotiate between the horse-and-buggy and space-ship types of education without splitting the personality of the child.

High Schools To Hold Soil Essay Contests

The high schools of Carrier Mills, Eldorado, Galatia, and Harrisburg will participate in an essay contest on soil conservation which is being sponsored in the county this year by the Saline County Soil Conservation district.

A $25.00 savings bond will be awarded in each school to the writer of the best essay on the subject of soil conservation. The four winners, one from each of the high schools, will then compete for the grand prize which will be a $50.00 savings bond. Thus some student in Saline county will be the winner of savings bonds with a maturity value of $75.00.

The county winner will be the guest of the Saline County Soil Conservation district at the annual district banquet which will be held in January and will read the winning essay as part of the program.

The conservation of our soils is of major importance to all the people of Saline county regardless of their business or profession. The Saline County Soil Conservation district is sponsoring this contest in an effort to stimulate further research and study on the subject of soil conservation among the high school students. Many of these students will be the operators, or the wives of operators, of farms in Saline county in the future.

Rules governing the contest are being worked out by a committee and will be ready for publication by the time schools open this Fall. The directors of the district express their appreciation of the fine spirit of cooperation shown by the administrators of the school systems in this endeavor.

Grand Opening Saturday by Scherrer Equipment Company

New Sales, Service
Is Located on
Rt. 142 at Eldorado

The grand opening of the Scherrer Equipment company's sales and service at Eldorado is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 13, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Scherrer Equipment Co., International Harvester dealer for Saline and Gallatin counties, plus a part of Hardin and Johnson counties, is located on Route 142, east of the four-way intersection of Routes 142 and 45 at Eldorado.

Owners and operators of the business are George Scherrer and John Scherrer, who have been in the farm implement business since they returned to civilian life from military service in 1946. Their father, now retired, started the business in 1942.

The Scherrer brothers now have two International Harvester businesses, one in Ridgway and the one in Eldorado. John will manage the Ridgway business and George will be at Eldorado.

Eldorado Employees
Working at Eldorado will be Ned Grissom, parts manager; John Ward and Kenneth Roberts, mechanics; John McKinley, sales manager. Also employed at Eldorado at present are Melvin Gwaltney and H. G. McGuire, working as set-up people, getting farm equipment assembled and ready for display.

"We feel we are very fortunate in having an experienced, capable group working with us," Mr. Scherrer stated today. Grissom, Ward and Roberts all worked with V. V. Brown when he operated the International Harvester agency in Harrisburg and are experts in their field. Mr. McKinley, the sales manager, has seven years' experience, knows the business well and Mr. Scherrer declared, "We will stand behind his deals one hundred per cent. He is our representative in the sales field and has our backing."

The Eldorado business is housed in a large metal building, containing more than 6,500 square feet and is located on a 3 1-3 acre tract of ground, allowing a large parking area and lots of space to display farm equipment on the outside.

Carry Appliances
In addition to handling a general line of tractors and farm machinery, Scherrer also carries home electrical appliances, including home freezers, refrigerators and air conditioners.

"We carry a good stock of parts for all equipment and maintain a complete maintenance and service department," Scherrer pointed out. They have a fully equipped service truck and can go right to the field to repair farm equipment, if needed.

A complete line of farm machinery—except corn pickers and hay balers—plus electrical appliances will be on display during the grand opening Saturday.

Mr. Scherrer stated today that corn pickers and hay balers were on order, but wouldn't arrive by the end of this week. They have been open for business since June and have enjoyed a good business, having sold all hay balers and the replacement order hasn't been received.

Operate Large Farm
The Scherrer brothers were raised on a farm and are well acquainted with the needs and problems of the farmer. They now operate a large farm in Eagle Creek township, where they raise grain, cattle and hogs.

John Scherrer is a graduate of the University of Illinois, with a degree in agriculture, and prior to volunteering for military service during War II, was agriculture instructor at Shawneetown high school.

George also is a University of Il linois graduate, with a degree in electrical engineering. Before volunteering for military duty, he was with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, as an engineer with REA. He is a member of the American Society of Agriculture engineers.

They have the education and experience to be of service to the farmers of the area, and are "down-to-earth" men, friendly and easy to talk with.

Mr. Scherrer stated today that they would like to see all farmers use plenty of limestone, potash and fertilizers and use crop rotation with clover, making better crops.

This fits in with the motto of the business, which has been built on selling quality merchandise—service—fair dealings to all. "To help make Better Homes, Better Farms, Better Living."

Everyone is invited to visit the Scherrer Equipment Saturday for the grand opening. There will be door prizes, including a $249.95 IHC freezer and other useful items. Nothing to buy, just register anytime during the day.

On hand to greet those visiting Scherrer Equipment company Saturday will be representatives from the International Harvester district office in Evansville and Bob Peritt, zone manager from Carmi. These men will be glad to discuss farm equipment with anyone interested.

Calmness of mind is one of the beautiful jewels of wisdom.

The most lovable and livable quality that any human being can possess is tolerance.

The golden age is before us, not behind us.

NEW TEACHERS AT RIDGWAY—Recently added to the teaching staffs of the Ridgway schools were Logan Roark (left) and Miss Charlotte Cameron. Mr. Roark will teach mathematics and handle the guidance program. He formerly taught in the Eldorado high school and succeeds Val Jean Cashen, who has resigned. Miss Cameron will teach the second grade at Ridgway. She comes to Ridgway from Ashley and has had three years' teaching experience. James O. Austin, principal of the Ridgway unit system, stated he is still looking for a Latin-English instructor for the high school to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Sue Hill of Eldorado, who resigned and has accepted a position on the Norris City high school faculty.

Buyers Still Prefer Big Auto Down Payments

DETROIT (AP)—Despite all the talk about "crazy credit" in the booming automobile market, Americans buying cars on credit as a whole are making just as big down payments as they've done in the past 10 years, a study of new car financing indicated today.

The survey was made by Universal C. I. T. Credit Corp. of New York, whose business is financing automobiles. It claims to be the largest independent automobile finance agency.

It reported it found that in the 10 years since the end of World War II, the American public has bought 107 billion dollars worth of new cars on time. Of this amount, 22 per cent was handled through down payments and the other 78 per cent financed.

A Record Pace

The total amount of new cars financed during the first 6 months this year has been moving at a record clip. A lot of the low, low down payment deals with long terms to pay them off have attracted attention.

The liberal financing has been responsible for part of the boom in new car sales, now running at a record pace. But the Universal C. I. T. report indicated that in the first six months the public as a whole still was financing only 78 per cent of the value of new cars bought on time.

In the first six months of the year, it said, $8,600,000,000 in new car loans were made. But these loans were used to buy cars worth 11 billion dollars, indicating the buyers still were handling only 78 per cent of the total price of the cars through loans and making cash down payments of 22 per cent for the cars.

L. Walter Lundell, president of Universal C. I. T. said Americans have proved very good credit risks in automobile purchases.

Will Pay Off Loans

He said 72 billion of the 84 billion dollars borrowed since the end of the war has been repaid already with the other 12 billion dollars being repaid at present. He said that while $8,600,000,000 in new loans were made in the first six months this year, the public was repaying $6,400,000,000 in previous loans.

During this year, he said, some 10 million Americans will finish paying off their automobile loans.
